The Cabinet on Friday discussed the question of an extra session of Congress, and although no definite result was arrived at, the drift of the discussion seemed to be that the extra session will be held between the 1st and the 15th, of May.

NO FOREIGNER NEED APPLY Democratic Ward meetings.

Tom Jarvis, the fraud who, by rascality, bulldozing, ballot-box stuffing and other parallel games got to be Governor, is now figuring to be Senstor in place of Matthew W. Ransom. If it was not for the damage to the state we should greatly rejoice from the fact that the elevation of such a man as Jarvis over so able and faithful a Senator as M. W. Rausom, would greatly benefit the Republican party. Ransom has many friends in the Senate, thereby enabling him to get legislation beneficial to the people which makes him strong with the masses: and adds to the strength of his party. In a party sense we should be glad to see Jarvis successful over Ransom, but the disgrace would be fearful for even North Carolina to bear.

The following gentlemen were nominated at the Democratic Ward meetings on Thursday night last: Second Ward-W. L. Smith and Alfred Alderman. Third Ward - L.

Samuel Northrop.

Jas. Huggins. Fourth Ward .- D. G. Worth and

All these gentlemen are fair minded and good men, with one single exception, that of W. L. Smith, of the 2nd ward. He was chairman of the board of commissioners last summer which controlled the elections, and to him more than any other man is due the tact that the Republicans failed to get 1,050 of their votes polled in this city. Mr. Smith is very bitter in his politicsmost too much so for a presiding officer. He has taken the nomination for Alderman for the purpose of being Mayor, and should he be Mayor we are confident that he could not decide impartially between a Democrat and a Republican. Therefore if we must have a Democrat, we hope to have one who can act impartially between all

Mr. H. T. Crosby has been Chief Clerk of the War Department so long, and has performed his duties so perfectly satisfactory to the citizens, as well as to the officers of the army, we hope that the new Secretary will continue him, unless he can do something better for him. In that case all his friends would consent to see him leave his present position; but even then it would not be natural to visit the War Department and fail to see Crosby. It would be exceedingly unsatisfactory to all those who have been going there for the last twenty years and doing business. Therefore we hope to see him continued in his present quar-ters, for he is nequestionably the right man for that place.

Foreigners, your votes are good enough for Democratic candidates, but you must not expect any of the honors. "And don't you forget it."

HOAR'S SPEECH,

Mr. Hoar. Mr. President, I had no intention of taking part in this debate, and I do not now propose to detain the Senate for any length of time. But I Tactics, committed suicide in San think it due to myself, I think it due Francisco by cutting his throat. 11e to the character of the Senate, I think it due to American manhood to express my emphatic indignation at the exhibition which the Senator from Georgia containing powder was found near the has made so degrading as it seems to Lord Mayor's Mansion in London. If me to the character of this body. It is it had exploded it would have injured the first time in the political history of this country that a Senator has risen in his place and undertaken in advance of the act to deliver a lecture to his peer and to inform him that if he should do what is deiired by one-half of the members of this body, he will do lers" who ran away from North Caro- an act which he proceeds to pronounce

It is none of the business of the Senator from Georgia how any other Senator in this body shall cast his vote Oscar, King of Sweden and Norway Each of us is responsible to his country, to his State, to his conscience, to his God, and in whatever part of this Republic we may dwell no slavemaster or plantation overseer is to wave his whip over the heads of American Senators. Applause in the galleries. | Every utterance that came from the lips of the Senator from Georgis was an insult to the representatives of the American people who sit in these seats. The Senator no more understands what is to-day than when chosen as a Union man to a State convention, he cast the vote which carried that State into the rebellion. He has learned nothing rest of us will know until we die, what either of consistency, of constitutional the Senator from Georgia thinks of us, duty, of propriety, of personal behavior, > that day to this. The Senator's speech was degrading also by reason of the petty degrading test which he applies to the conduct of Senators. The question whether a Senator's vote will in the judgment of terests of the country, whether It will advance the interest of the State be represents, has not been mooted in the two or three elaborate harangues we have heard from the lips of the Senator from Georgia. What he owes to this or that party, whethere Democratic or Republican votes were counted when he was declared elected to his seat. whether his vote is to advance the interests of this or that party, seems to be the consideration which arises in the mind of the Senator from Georgia. Why, he has undertaken to draw comparison between the position of my honorable friend from Illinois and that of the new Senator from Virginia, who had just taken his seat. With much honeyed commendation he compares the honorable Senator from Illinais to the sages and saints of the early and better days of the Republic. The Senator from Georgia was lost in admiration of the virture and the consistency and the fidelity of his esteemed neighpor, the Senator from Illinois; and why? The Senator from Illinois, having been elected four years ago by the Legislature of a State which had an average Republican majority of from 50,000 to 100,000, having been chosen by a Legielature containing a · Republicar majority, but owing his election to the voters partly of Democrats and partly of Republicans, according to my ho able friend from Georgia-

Mr. Davis, of Illinois. Will the enator allow me to interrupt him. Mr. Hoar, Certainly.

Mr. Davis, of Illinois. The Sonate ters in the First and Fifth Wards in certainly did not listen to my speech

Mr. Hoar. I am not criticising the sition of the Senator from Illion

Mr. Hill, of Georgia.

Mr. Davis, of Illinois Just wait s moment. The fact is all I want to state. The fact is the Republicans were not in the majority in the Legislature; that I stated; they were numerically in the plurality. The independents of that body and the Democrats the party to which he belongs will try state. The fact is the Republicans elected me to the Senate.

Mr. Hoar. The independents were Republicans, were they not?

Mr. Dayis, of Illinois. Some of them were Democrats and some of them were Republicans, but like me they had gone into the liberal movement of nois now and ever since have been largely Republican. I am not criticising the position of my honorable friend from Illinois. I should deem it unworthy of me as a gentleman, say ing nothing of my position as a Sena tor, to undertake to suggest that anything but his own conscience and his own sense of duty was to give the law to him in casting the vote which he has to give. But when the Senator from Illinois was elected from a State containing ordinarly a large majority of Republicans, because there was an accidental majority of Democrats and and independent Republicans in that State, he'throught it his duty to cast his vote for the Democratic organization of the Senate, although, as he informs us, it was Repugnant alike to his taste and his judgment in many particulars. The Senator from Virginia owes his seat to a State which casts 84,000 Republican vetes and 34,000 Independent Democratic or Readjuster votes, making 118,000, and only 96,000 votes representing the Bourbon or regular Democracy. He votes, if he does vote, for an organization which commends tself to his taste and his judgment .-That is the only difference between him and Senator from Illinois, whom his neighbor from Georgia so much admires. Is the Senator a traitor who represents 22,000 majority of the people of his own state in voting as he thinks right, and the Senator at Washington who represents a minority of the ople of this state in voting as he thinks wrong? That is the logic of the honorable Senator from Georgia.

Mr. Hoar. But the people of Illi

Mr. Davis, of Illinois. I will say to the Senator that the Democrats and Independents elected me to the Senate. I chose to be elected by them, and accepted the office from them. Because the Democrats were largely in the majority they had a right at any rate to suppose that I would not turn the Democratic organization out of power in this Senate. That is the reason, and I gave it the other day.

Mr. Hoar. The Senator from Illinois would not turn a dog out of power un-der those circumstances, and nobody supposes he would. I am not criticis w him. I repeat.

Mr. Davis, of Illicois. Then why keep carping, if you are not criticising?
Mr. Hoar. My friend from Illinois missed the delightful pleasure of hearing his own eulogy pronounced by the

Mr. Davis, of Illinois. I was not in. Mr. Hoar. He was not in the Chamber, and so missed the chance of know-ing in his lifetime, what none of the and I am responding to the speech in which the honorable Senator from Georor what constitutes true manhood from gia drew a parallel between the virtuous Senator from Illinois who votes with the Democrats and the wicked Senator from Virginia who he fears will vote with the Republicans; and

But. Mr. President, there is something deeper; there is something certainthe individual Senator advance the in- ly deeper in this country than a party name or a party attachment or a party affiliation. The Senator from Virginia in his eloquent speech, told us in a very significant utterance of a Democratic party in the south that put one thing into its platform and exacted quite another thing in its political conduct. He told us of a Democratic party in Virginia, under whatever name they hoose to be called, who mean at least that if Democracy triumphs in this country in future it shall triumph in a fair field, and who believe that deeper than Democracy is the right of every American citizen to cast his vote as he pleases, and to have that vote honestly counted as it is cast, There are Democrais in the south who mean in future o overcome their political antagonists by reasoning with them and not by heating them; there are Democrats in the south who mean, if they can, to vote down the men with whom they liffer, but who do not mean to assass nate them; and if there be such Democrats, their place is with the Republican party until that result is accom-plished. There are Democrats in the south who mean in the language of one of the most elequent utterances I have lately heard from human lips, 'to live a nation and not in an aggregation of petty provinces" any longer. There are Democrats in the south who do not mean to live any longer in the gracemean to live any longer in the grave-yards and among the tombe, whose face is towards the morning and upon whose brow the rising sunlight of the future glory of this country is already beginning to be visible. To such Dem-ocrats, if the advance courier of their column has at length reached the Sen-ter Chamber, after long waiting and ate Chamber, after long waiting and yearning, the Republicaus of the north desire to stretch forth a friendly hand desire to stretch forth a friendly hard.
It is for no purpose of petty bargain or barter; it is inspired by no miserable ambition for office or political victory; but it is in the spirit of that patriotism which loves the south as much as it

HONOR TO GENERAL HANCOCK-

Not much came out of the presence of the ranking Major-General of the army at the inaugural ceremonies, although nothing was wanting of pleasantries and courtesies as soon as the canvass was over, and there was a general gush of generous good-will to the distinguished soldier, who had been beaten at the polls, although it may be said with truth that he was not much in the habit of being beaten on the field of battle. It happened that the Manhatian Club conceived the idea of supplementing the honors bestowed on the General at the inauguration, and invited Gen. McClellan, General Gordon, Sam. Randall, and about 175 others. And Mr. A. J. Vanderpoel, the President of the Club, at the proper postprandial period of the dinner delivered an address complimentary to Gen. Hancock, and to such presence as Fitz John Porter, Abram S. Hewitt, Sunset Cox, Ben. Wood, et als. Mr. Vanderpoel, there being no set toasts, expressed the opinion that no introduction was needed after Cherubusco, the deeds of the Fifth Army Corps, and what he was pleased to denominate the enthusiastic reception at the inauguration ceremonies, announced Gen. Hancock. The verbatim report runs thus:

enthusiastically greeted. His remarks

Mr. President and gentlemen who have assembled here to-night to do me honor! I am no doubt called upon mainly in consequence of the position I nt canvass for the Pres idency. I regard my connection with that subject as practically closed. I, however, maintain the principles which I held when I accepted the nomination of the Cincinnati Convention, and believing, as I do, that the enforcement of those principles would promote the welfare of our whole country, I hope to see them prevail at some future time Their success must rest with the Jeffersonian Democratic party which is so | Applause | To you I commend the preservation of that true Republicanism on which our fathers founded the institutions which have made us so great among the nations of the earth.

SENATOR SHERMAN. Four years ago Hon. John Sherman laid down Senatorial Honors to take charge of the financial department of the United States Government. He had made a great name as Senator from the great State of Ohio, but President Hayes, who was just entering his term as President, wanted a man of ability to take hold of the Treasury Department. It had been for many years badly managed, and it was all important to Mr. Hayes's administration to have a change in that respect, therefore he made the demand on Senator Sherman, which was acceded to. At that time it took $1.25 in greenbacks to buy $1.00 in gold; bonds drawing 6 per cent interest only brought par. In two years Mr. Sherman brought greenbacks on a par with gold, and he refunded about $500,000,000 of United States bonds, drawing 6 per cents interest with bonds drawing 4 per cent interest and sold most of the said 4 per cent bonds at a premium. He left the Treasury Department with the best record of any man that has ever held the position. But before his time is out as Secretary of the Treasury his own State demanded his services again in the United States Senate, and on intimation that he would accept the place, he was nominated by the Repubtirely deserved by Mr. Sherman. He goes from the Senate to the Treasury Department, and then from the Treasury Department back to the Senate after four years absence. Mr. Sherman is very justly looked upon to-day as the greatest living statesman on the American continent.

able a man in the Senate as Senator Matt. W. Ransom is. He has again shown his ability and usefulness by the very handsome appropriation obtained for North Carolina rivers and harbors, by Congress, at the last session. The Engineers only asked for $50,000 for the Cape Fear bar improvements, and Ransom got $140,000, which places the Wilmingtonians under additional obligations to this ever faithful Senator. He did not stop there, but he got $330,-000 for this state alone. This amount is to continue the works now going on, and to commence other needed improvements. The amount of money above speaks volumes for Senator Ransom, and should he do no more he has already enough to its credit to keep Tom Jarvis, who by means of fraud subscribes himself Governor of North Carolina, from ever being Sena-tor. We say, without fear selected from their ranks. And we fought. In reply, Mr. Lincoln said that he was proud to have the congratulations of the citizens of his own state, and would try and make his administration of the Department of War acceptable, not only to the people of the state of Illinois, but to the whole country.

THE SECRETARY'S REPLY.

COLONEL ROBERT 6. INGERSOLL was called upon and feelingly alluded to the associations connected with the appointment of Mr. Lincoln as Secretary of War. He congratulated the Secretary and the country that a son of Abraham Lincoln was in all essentials the greatest man America ever produced, and the greatest and grandest man of the age. He had held more hearts in the hollow of his hand than any other of the world's philanthropists and deliverers, and his son was canopied by the most sacred recollections. He could not fail to be otherwise than worthy of his lineage, and the grand page in history which had been written peasants. One report states that one of them was so roughly handled that his spleption to all a Cabinet position er elevated, could be too high for the worthy son of so eminent a patriot.

A WORD TO REPUBLICANS.

The success of the Republican party in the late canvass, was due to the exertions and means used by Republicans in states other than North Carolina, which secured the inauguration of that great statesman, James A. Garfield. President, and control of the govern-ment at least for the ensuing four years, by the party that elected him. That North Carolina was not carried for him, is a matter for deep regret, and implies a question—Did Republicans in this state do their duty? The question may answer itself. More effort, a larger circulation of Republican newspapers among the people, might have produced a different result.

Although successful in the late can to fold their arms and sit down to enoy the truits of their late victory, schieved by others, and not work for the cause more earnestly than ever,-This, no good Republican will do, who understands the obligations which be is under to his party, and to the Administration under which he holds his official position. As nature is ever ceaseles in the active forces of her laws, so, also, are parties that can live only by constant work and watchfulness of the vigilance of the opposing party, ever ready to take advantage.

This being so, and the Der party not being dead, as some suppose, especially in this state, now is the time to reorganize the Republican forces and to add to the number by reaching the mines of the people through the channel of Republican journals placed in their hands to read. It is for those who hold office and draw pay from the government, to exhibit the extent of their real in the cause by aiding to cir-

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DVSFBFSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. • A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged. sively deranged.

THE STATE OF THE MONEY

MARKET. [From the Tribune.]

A magical change was effected yesterday by information that the odious and unjust fifth section would be stricken from the Funding bill. While there were many doubters, and great feverishness throughout the day in consequence, the prevailing opinion, among Democrats as well as Republicans, in Wall Street, was that Congress would abandon its coercive policy entirely. It was also stated with great confidence, by persons who had unusual opportunities of information, that the President had determined that he would not sign the so-called Funding bill, it it came to him with the objectionable section. Money came into the Street freely from many quarters, and the danger of continued interruption of business through monetary stringency was believed to be overprovided, of course, the results at Washington answered expectations.

Whether a Three Per Cent bill can now be made to succeed, even with removal of taxation from banking property, after the extraordinary disturbance of the money market is quite doubtful. Plainly, it will rest very much with the banks themselves, because any apprehension ef continued disturbance of that interest would operate quite as surely as the distur- tions that may be made and to prepare bance itself to prevent investment in a and submit a plan at that meeting, bond hearing a rate of interest low beyond precedent. If the National banks should feel disposed to take a new loan heartily and voluntarily, aiding the Covernment with all their influence. as they have done in every other refunding operation, the money market could be speedily restored to a condi- to either of the Committee at Washingtion of ease and confidence. For, as ton, D. C. we have repeatedly observed, there was absolutely nothing in the domestic or foreign business of of the country in its supply of available capital or in the currents of speculatiod, to occasion Tribune as the inevitable consequence of an attempt to carry out the Democratic policy of coercion, was the sole cause of the disaster. And all efforts of the Treasury were powerless to afford relief, as was plainly shown on Friday; while the relief was instantaneous when it became known that the fifth section would not become a law.

In consequence of this information, the contraction of circulation through surrender by the banks, ceased on Friday, and the amount deposited for that purpose on Saturday was only $731,-500. On the other hand, the amount of bonds purchased by the Assistant Treasurer was only $1,648,000. Had the retirement of circulation continued on Friday and Saturday at the rate of over $6,600,000 in two days, as on Wednesday and Thursday, it is evident that the small disbursement of $5,335,-3000 in the two days on account of bonds obtainable by the Government would have been of no practical effect. The contraction would then have been nearly $1,300,000 in two days, whereas, on account of the falling off in deposits for surrender of circulation to $2,216,400 for the two days, the increase of available money was about crease of available money was about $3,100,000. The remarkable improvement was evidently due rather to favorable information; and strong considence as to the future, than to any immediate expansion in the supply of funds. It is known, however, that further discretionary orders for retirement of circulation to a very large amount are already here, execution of which is deferred only because the ad-vices from Washington promise a satisfactory result.

AN IMPORTANT CIRCULAR Method of Calling the Next Republican National Convention.

The following circular was issued by the Republican National Committee on October 8, 1880:

By Rule 10 of the Convention of June, 1880, it is provided that the Re-publican National Committee "shall, within the next twelve months, pre-scribe methods or rules for the selec-tion of delegates to the National Contion of delegates to the National Convention to be held in 1884, announce the same to the country, and issue a call for that convention in conformity therewith, provided that such methods or rules shall include and secure to the several congressional districts in the United States the right to elect their own delegates to the National Convention." Preliminary to carrying into effect the foregoing rule, the National Committee, on July 1, 1880, adopted the following:

transmission to the committee of plans transmission to the committee of plans and suggestions on the subject from any person, prior to October 15, 1880.

At a subsequent meeting the time for such transmission was extended to February 1, 1881, and it was a ro voted that a full meeting of the committee should be called to consider the subject some time in March, 1881.

July 1, 1880: PLAN OF MR. WILLIAM E. CHANDLER, OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The Republican National Convention of 1884 shall consist of four delegates at large from each state and two delegates from each congressional district, all to be chosen at popular conventions in such manner as the Republicans of seek state way determined. licans of each state may determine; provided the delegates from each con-gressional district shall be the choice of the Republicans of that district. The conventions within the states for the election of delegates to the National Convention shall be held at least one month before the time for the meeting of the National Convention. Notices of contests may be given to the National Committee, accompanied by full printed statements of the grounds of contest, which shall also be made public, and preference in the or-der of hearing and determining contests shall be given by the convention ac-cording to the dates of the reception of such notices and statements by the National Committee.

PLAN OF MR. JOHN A. MARTIN, OF

KANSAS. That the Republican National Convention for 1884 shall be composed as follows: First, Each state shall be entitled to four delegates at large. Second. Each Congressional district shall be entitled to one delegate. Third. In addition to delegates at large, each state shall be entitled to representation in proportion to its Republican vote; that is, one delegate for every 12,000 Republican votes polled for President in 1880, or fraction of over one-half that number.

The meeting of the National Committee has been called at Washington, March 5th, 1880, and Messrs. William E. Chandler, Edward McPherson, and George C.
